If you follow the news you're certainly familiar with the Borgata Casino. In fact, this casino frequently makes the headlines for generating the most revenues month after month. The Borgata has around 20% of the market shares in the online gaming industry NJ. So, it's not only a major player in the offline industry but online too. It certainly has much to do with the fact that it was created by 3 powerhouses (MGM, Mirage, and Boyd). Which means the Borgata's leaders have a lot of experience.

Borgata's online casino is fully optimized for small- and full-size screens, and will transition easily and smoothly between the two.

Pennsylvania is the 3rd state to host an intrastate online poker network. The other 2 states that boast intra-state online poker networks are New Jersey and Delaware. Unlike Delaware and Pennsylvania, however, the Garden State boasts 3 intra-state online poker networks whereby Partypoker NJ, Borgata Poker NJ, BetMGM Poker NJ all share a similar player pool with the All American Poker Network that is made up of both 888Poker NJ and WSOP.com.

Although Borgata Casino NJ stocks a game collection numbering in the hundreds, you won't find the exact same collection in Pennsylvania. No two online casinos will offer exactly the same games, even the same brand.

PartyPoker is a recognizable name in the world's poker circuit. PartyPoker is operated by its parent company which was formed from a joint partnership between MGM and Entain. All online operations across the country for both Borgata and BetMGM are managed under the BetMGM umbrella.

Borgata Casino was the first online casino licensed in New Jersey back in 2013, and it is now available in Pennsylvania. The Garden State site offers an all-in-one platform with an online casino, sportsbook and poker room, but it's too soon to say whether all of those will be available in Pennsylvania.

As such, it will be interesting to see how the 2 new additions affect PokerStars' bottom line. PokerStars first launched in the state in 2019 and has enjoyed a market monopoly for more than 15 months. How much of an advantage this gives PokerStars remains to be seen.
