Before April 2019, I used to hit higher amounts on the wheel, but never the really big ones. Considering how long I've played this game you'd think I would've hit one of the bigger ones at least once. At the same time, they've raised the bet on many games to $40,000 up from $8100, which translates to between 5 and 6 free spins every 2 hours. They're promoting donations to covid-19 relief. Apparently they're getting the funds by making sure players aren't benefitting from any promotion like the bonus wheel. In addition, they have upped the bet the game defaults to when you first open the game. It used to be 8100 if you had less than a million - now it's 40,000. They've changed the design to make sure you lose your money even faster. All these terrible changes happened in April which coincided with coronavirus and people quarantining at home.
