Two motors ensure efficient performance. One is for suction, the other powers the nozzles brush roll so embedded dirt can be captured. The bagless vacuum has a transparent plastic dirt container that releases with the push of a button. The nozzles hose can be stretched, providing several feet of reach, and a 20foot power cord permits going up stairs and into automobiles. Stored in a slot atop the vacuum is a crevice tool that attaches to the hose. Unlike most vacuums with a powered brush roll, this one never needs to have its drive belt replaced the belt is permanent. It carries a twoyear warranty against defects. 0 out of 5 stars I tried using other handhelds, but without a beater bar to whip up the ground in junk, they didnt do a good job. I decided Id give this machine a chance. First, its very easy to use. The front part of the machine that holds the beater bar and has the suction, slides off the main part, so you dont have to hoist the entire machine to vacuum. The main housing can sit on the stair while you use one hand to use the nozzle. I would have liked the hose to be just a bit longer, but thats my only beef with this machine so far. I didnt have to read the instructions to start using it. Theres a crevice tool with this machine as well, but I have not used it. I bought it specifically for the stairs. My upright has all the attachments I need. How well does it do the job. One set of stairs goes down to our finished basement, where our cats take up their residence. Since the stairs are their favorite place to stretch out, the carpet on the stairs is always matted with cat fur. The test for this machine was to see how much fur it would get out of the carpet, and it passed with flying colors. The beater bar is pretty powerful, and I feel I can regulate the depth by hand pressure. It fluffed the carpet pretty well too. I was very pleased with the results, I could not see any fur and the fur really shows up on the dark colored carpet. The second test was our stairs that go up to the second story. The carpet is a medium pile and very dense. I had been using an upholstery brush attachment from my vacuum, and they had just been cleaned a couple days before I received the Platinum Force. I couldnt believe the amount of carpet fuzz, dust and dirt that was inside the machine after I used it on the stairs. Passed again. Im very pleased with the Dirt Devil Platinum Force Hand Vac. I hope to buy another one for convenience! I just sorta nodded and mumbled something when she brought the subject up. I soon ordered this thing. <http://kitchensofdiablo.com/upload/camera-sony-w210-manual.xml>

Not only has this model 08240 worked well on the stairs, but this thing works GREAT for picking up dog hair and works very well on upholstery. Plus I find that I use it a lot to vac around and behind our PCs. The power is great and the electrically powered rotary brush does fine in picking up all sorts of crud. The small size also allows for easy use in our vehicles. The crevice tool is real handy for this application, BTW. Shortcomings Puts out a good gale when running, so can tend to scatter dirt sometimes on bare floors. The hose is a little short, but works out Ok. BTW, the cord can be wrapped around the whole unit. not a problem, storage wise, IMO. Summary Highly recommended based on excellent performance and reasonable price. This was really a perfect gift. She had bought a hand held vacuum in the 1980s when they first came out, but were not very powerful. Things have changed a lot since then. This is a really powerful cleaner, and is great for an older person. Her other vacuum was quite heavy and impractical. This is great for cleaning the steps and other hard to reach places. The only possible drawback is that there is not a really long extension that can be used for things like getting down cobwebs for a really short person. But probably this is done because it is hard to make it work as well when the extension is really long. We still need to figure out how to empty it, but at least you don't have to buy bags, which is nice. I am not an expert on the competing products, but this is highly recommended! So I won't repeat them. But I'm glad I listened to the reviewers, as I really like the product. All I have to add is that a few folks mentioned that they wished there was a way to store the cord. In fact it's very easy to just loop it around the head a number of times, there's a slight indentation on the bottom of the unit, so it loops very easily. and there is a notch on the plug, so you can fasten the plug to the cord so it stays put. One final note.

the cord is really very long, so it's convenient to use the vac all over the house. Was excited by the design and the fact that it's corded, which should've been better than those cordless ones. Worked great the first time, picked up those dust balls just fine. Very loud but it was worth it for the detachable arm and head to reach those hard to reach areas. Didn't notice much heat this time. Second time, my partner used it to defur the couch. She took the head off and mostly used it like that, then emptied the cup. When she put it back, the sucking power was considerably less, like it was clogged or something. I checked and the filter looked clean to me. I cleared everything out, put everything back together, made sure everything was tight, turned it back on and nada. No suckage through the head and only marginal sucking power through the detached hose. It generated considerable heat this time. I unfortunately read the only good review at time of purchase. now I see all the bad reviews coming in. At least it was cheap but I'm still very disappointed. Walker 2.0 out of 5 stars I specifically bought it based on the majority of positive reviews here, but unfortunately, the brush does not turn anymore, and the vacuum is now purely suction and quite loud at that. I have had the vacuum less than a year, and do not use it all that often, and clean it regularly, so I do not believe the faulty brush is something I have done. The vacuum is not meeting my expectations and needs. I am now ordering the Fantom 430 which apparently has a motorized brush, and seeing how that works out. Please try again later. Please try again later. Morning Glory 5.0 out of 5 stars The unit is light weight and easy to carry, and its suction is powerful very gratifying when doing quick cat hair clean up before company arrives. I'm also impressed with the overall design the tools are cleverly incorporated into the body, and the head removes easily for maneuvering in small spaces. This is my first Dirt Devil vacuum, and I'll definitely buy another when I need to replace my current full size model. I'm glad I've found the brand, and can definitely recommend this model! Please try again later. Please try again later. Just the thing for vacuuming the stairs. Had some good reviews. So I bought it. Used it a few times and was pretty impressed, but then the problems started. If you have anyone with long hair in the house, the brush will stop rotating after a few uses as the strands get wound up in it. Fine, I open it up, remove the hair, back in business. Use it a few more times. Then the brush mechanism breaks. There are no parts available, so you can't fix it yourself. So I took it for warranty service in early November 03. The part they need finally arrives from the factory in early February 04. It's the wrong part. Now I'm looking at waiting another 2 months. I said keep it if you get it working, donate it to someone. I'm done with Dirt Devil Ive had one other of their models in the past and thought it was mediocre. Ill try an Oreck next.

If Amazon is showing this model and shipping out the Power Reach I would think that they would pay to ship the wrong item back. THEY BETTER! I will write a review once I receive mine and use it. Please try again later. Please try again later. It is not accurate. This item does NOT have a second motor driving the brush roll. The brush roll is useless, as it is driven by air moving by a turbine, connected to a belt, that is supposed to turn the roll. This is not NEAR enough force to move the roll against ANY resistance. The suction alone is not strong enough to clean effectively. The unit is large, heavy, unweildy, and the detachable nozzle head does not have a hose long enough to make it worthwhile. This is the poorest, loudest hand vac I have ever owned. I do not recommend it to anyone. Please try again later. Please try again later. Hold times are long.
