The tool itself is an economical option that allows the use of accessories that require a high speed. A key application that generally requires high speed is a fiberglass reinforced cutoff wheel. Using that at a slow speed will make the accessory less effective. There are high speed rotary tool accessories in our line that we do not recommend using with the Series 100 because the accessories require a lower speed for safe operation.<http://tavio.ru/files/cosco-mobility-scooter-manual.xml>

It is simply a washer usually aluminium that fits in the hole of the saw blade and reduces the hole diameter down to the size of the flange on your saw. This is common practice. Never try and centre a blade without the correct size hole to flange size. Very dangerous. These washers are really cheap and can be obtained from most hardware stores. Usually in an assortment of different outside and inside diameters to suit any circumstance. Hope this helps, cheers Bob. Oct 26, 2016. Just a thought; maybe your saw requires a 300 mm blade rather than a 12 inch. The popular view is the two sizes are interchangeable but there is a small difference in diameter with the Imperial blade being about a quarter inch bigger than the metric. I had a similar problem with an eight inch saw. When I fitted an eight inch blade it seemed to be ok but when switched on it made a loud noise, similar to yours I guess. I was unwilling to buy another blade so I modified the saw to give the blade housing a little more clearance so I could use the eight inch. Jan 17, 2016. Comments are closed. When the new wheel was on this morning, the lock was very hard to slide and the Stylus wouldnt turn on. I also noticed the green light on the charger blinks for 20 or 30 seconds and then goes off if it comes on at all. My package didnt have an instruction manual. I dont know if the battery is drained or damaged or the charger is not working. I would appreciate any advice.

Sleepless I sent a request to the customer relations department here and hope that they can help me. If they cant, could someone here please make a copy of any literature that they have for it I am even willing to rent on till the end of Sept, 08, and pay for the shipping. I have a big Art show coming up and cannot finish my work without the station. If you are willing to only rent the station I will need to know how much you would charge daily, before I send a payment. You might say I am also a staving artist, looking to correct that position by selling at my one person show in Santa Fe, New Mexico. I would be so grateful if someone out there could help me out. However, recently the saw went nutters on me the motor will spin faster than usual. So after taking out the control board to have a look, I realised the transformer on the control board has fried.I invested a few bucks and ordered some key parts that I figured might need replacing. I plan to do the same with my scroll saw.I had Dremel send me a replacement part and now Im trying to figure out the easiest way to put it in the saw. Does anyone have suggestions as to the best route to take to get the job done. Any suggestions would be appreciated. I have only one complaint with this scroll saw and every other brand I have ever owned and that is lubricating the bearings. I wish there was a simpler way to do this. Manual says lay it on its side and oil the bearings let soak 24 hrs. Flip it over and do the same on the other side. My wife in her loving ways said lets go to Home Depot and see what they have. All
