Do I Need an Appointment If you are between the ages of 18-20 you will also have to complete an approved driver's education course if you have not yet done so. However, exceptions can be made for applicants between the ages of 16 and 17 if they have completed a driver's education course, practiced driving for at least 50 hours, and passed the written, vision, and driving exams. These documents are arranged into four groups A, B, C, D and you will need one from each group—except group D, for which you will need two. You will be asked to execute several common maneuvers during your driving test—including checking vehicle controls and mirrors, parking, driving in reverse, and making a three point turn. Similarly, applicants aged 16 to 17 who are looking to obtain a Class D license will also have to undergo a driver's education course. Many Illinois public schools offer driver's education courses to help their students meet this requirement.

In the permit phase phase one, drivers must be at least 15 years old and should always have a licensed driver age 21 or older in the vehicle with them. They are not allowed to drive from 10 p.m. to 6 a.m. Sunday through Thursday and 11 p.m. to 6 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday. Phase two, also known as the initial licensing phase, requires drivers to remain conviction-free for the six months before this phase. Drivers in this phase are not allowed to have more than one passenger under the age of 20 in the vehicle at a time, unless they are a sibling or other family member. The driving test will require you to perform ten driving maneuvers. You can find a complete list of these maneuvers in the Illinois Rules of the Road handbook. If you subsequently fail those two attempts you will be required to pay another fee before trying again. Unlike many states, Illinois will normally allow you to retake your test on the same day you failed it, if possible. To prepare for the driving portion of your exam, you should spend time practicing the ten required maneuvers also listed in the Illinois 2014 Rules of the Road handbook. Keep in mind that you will have to pay this fee again if you fail three attempts at your driving test. As with the Class D license, you will need to provide documentation proving your identity and residency within Illinois. If you are under 18 you will also need permission from a parent or guardian. It contains information on traffic laws in your state, as well as helpful driving tips that you should practice when you get behind the wheel. Updated regularly, your drivers license book will be useful to you for the rest of your driving career.
