coms free California practice permit tests to prepare for your exam the fast and easy way. Our questions come right from the source the California DMV drivers handbook.

Do I Need an Appointment If you are under eighteen years old, you must also have written approval from one or both of your parents. However, this will require you to take a mandatory driver's education course. To avoid the driver's education requirements, you must be at least 17 and a half years old. Examples of these appropriate documents include a U.S. birth certificate, a U.S. passport, an armed forces ID card, a naturalization certificate, or a permanent resident card. Other but less common documents include a marriage or domestic partnership certificate, adoption papers containing your legal name, change of name documents must have your name both before and after legal change, or dissolution of marriage documents. Your vision test can be taken with or without corrective lenses. Your behind-the-wheel driving test will require an appointment, and no exams are given after 430 pm to ensure that applicants have enough time to finish their tests. If you are under 17 and a half years old, you must provide proof that you have successfully completed or are currently enrolled in a driver's education course. Your driver's education course will provide you with a certificate confirming your completion or enrollment in their program. For those over eighteen, you must be accompanied by a driver eighteen years or older with a valid California driver's license. You will not be permitted to drive alone with only a driver's permit. For minors, you will not be permitted to drive until your driver's education instructor validates your permit with a signature. You must always be accompanied by a parent, guardian, spouse, driving instructor, or adult aged 25 years or older.

For the driving section of your test, you will be required to locate and use your vehicle's controls correctly—including the parking brake, headlights, windshield wipers, emergency flashers, and defroster. It is up to the discretion of the test administrator to determine whether you pass or fail the driving portion of your permit test. If you fail all three attempts or do not complete the test within the twelve month limit you will be required to pay another application fee—granting you another three attempts in twelve months. Applicants preparing for the test should familiarize themselves with the information contained in the online brochure How to Prepare for Your Driving Test provided on the California DMV website. This will provide you with a checklist of preparations for the test. There are also several practice tests that applicants can access through the California DMV website as well. Even though driver's education courses are not mandatory for applicants aged 17 and a half or older, you should consider enrolling in one if you are particularly concerned about your success. As mentioned earlier, this fee is good for a twelve month period and up to three attempts at the test. Once these requirements are fulfilled you are eligible to receive a California learner's permit. You may obtain a full driver's permit any time after being issued a learner's permit as long as you can successfully pass the behindth wheel driver's test. Do I Need an Appointment You will only need an appointment for your behindth wheel driver's test, although scheduling an appointment for the written test is a great way to save time during your trip to the DMV. However, it should be pointed out that no tests, regardless of appointment, will be administered after 430 pm to ensure that applicants have plenty of time to complete their examinations. If you're renewing a license that has been expired for longer than a year, or if you're applying for reinstatement after a suspension, you may have to retake the written exam in order to obtain your license. If you are at least 18 years of age, you do not have to provide proof of driver education completion to obtain an Instruction Permit. To obtain a Minor's Provisional License, you must be at least 16 years old; provide proof of driver education completion; have held an Instruction Permit for at least 6 months; provide a parent's signature on your permit indicating completion of 50 hours of supervised driving 10 hours at night; and pass a driving test. If you are over 18 years of age, to obtain a Driver License you must pass a knowledge exam and receive a permit; and pass a driving test. New California residents have 10 days after establishing residency in the state to exchange an outofstate license for a California license. You will be required to pass a knowledge exam to exchange your outofstate license for a California license.

In California, to obtain a Motorcycle Permit you must be at least 15 and a half years of age and pass a knowledge test. To obtain a Motorcycle License, you must be at least 16 years of age; have possessed a motorcycle permit for at least 6 months; provide proof of driver education training completion; and provide a completion certificate from a motorcycle rider training course. If you are 18 years of age or older, to obtain a Motorcycle License you must pass a knowledge test and provide a completion certificate from a motorcycle rider training course. If you are over 21 years of age, instead of presenting a completion certificate from a motorcycle rider training course, you may pass a motorcycle driving test to obtain a Motorcycle License. To obtain a Commercial Driver License CDL you must possess a CLP and pass the CDL road skills test. Teens can take the test if they are at least 16 years old, have successfully completed drivers education, and have held a driving permit for at least 6 months. The written test for renewal will only have 18 questions, of which you must correctly answer 15, and you will have 3 attempts to pass. However, if you hold a valid drivers license from another state then you will be allowed to waive the onroad driving test. Additionally, you will also be required to repass both tests if your drivers license has expired and you want to renew it. If you are under 18 years of age you must also have parental consent. If you are over 21 and have complete an approved motorcycle rider training course then you may present a certificate of successful completion in lieu of taking the onroad test. In case of a difference in interpretation between the translated version and the laws and regulations governing Saskatchewan drivers and vehicles, the laws and regulations prevail. The goal of this handbook is to help you become a knowledgeable and good driver. However, it is only a reference source, covering basic driving rules and techniques. The relevant statutes should be consulted to interpret and apply the law. Good drivers are always in control of their own actions, reactions and vehicle. Control means remaining calm and at ease behind the wheel while conducting smooth movements of the vehicle on the road and within traffic. The goal of a good driver is to disrupt traffic as little as possible. You should become highly skilled at identifying situations that require your attention, anticipating and predicting what other drivers might do, deciding on your response and then executing your decision. Make sure you have the knowledge and the ability to control your vehicle so a small error never turns into a dangerous situation. You should be able to control your vehicle in emergencies, in a variety of weather situations, as well as on varying road conditions including very slippery or icy surfaces. Driving is one of the few activities almost everyone practises frequently. You have the choice of being a sloppy, dangerous driver, or one who drives with precision, control and safety.

If you practise basic skills and aim for consistency, you can have fun while ensuring safety for yourself and for others. This handbook is intended to help you acquire a drivers licence. More importantly, it will help you develop safe and competent driving skills.
