

Santa's Little Helper

Today is Christmas Eve. Santa and Rudolf the Red-Nosed Reindeer are going to send lots of presents to children around the world. Santa puts on his red jacket and red hat. "Are you ready to go, Rudolf?" asks Santa. "Of course!" says Rudolf.

There are lots of presents in Santa's sleigh for children around the world. Santa rides his sleigh and passes by Amy's house. He stops and climbs down the chimney to send Amy a present. But something goes wrong—he is too fat and stuck in the chimney! "Help, Rudolf!" says Santa.

Amy sees Santa and asks, "May I help you?" Santa answers, "Yes. Can you pull me out?" Amy pulls Santa out and asks, "Can I help you send the presents to children around the world?" "Sure! Let's go." says Santa. They ride on the sleigh and go all around the world. Soon, all the presents are sent to the children's houses. Then, they go back to Amy's house.

Santa takes out a special present and gives it to Amy. "Thank you, Amy. You're a great helper tonight. Here's your present." says Santa. "Thank you, Santa. I will miss you. See you next year."
