Accessing media interviews with the founders and examining the first releases sets the stage for things to come. While the ‘social side’ of gaming has slowly crept into the real money play side of online casino gambling, this firm does not seem to be taking the path of fluffy symbols, ridiculous ‘win celebrations’ for inconsequential spin results, or slots that are designed to ‘play all day’ on a small bankroll with no hope of ever getting big win.

The company is in Gibraltar, and also have studios in London. They started operating in 2018, with a release schedule that concentrates on bringing out polished and finished games in the fastest way possible. Most of these games offer high volatility, excellent artwork, engaging special features and tons of big wins. The pace of production will no doubt scale up as the slots grow in popularity and the team gets to full speed.

Golden Rock Studios has built a portfolio of 13 varied casino games over the past few years. Of these there are 2 Blackjack games and 2 roulette games. These table games are well put together and fun to play, but where the real talents and qualities of the team come to the fore are the slots. These all have a fairly high variety, come with attractive bonus features, and contain unique themes and designs. Players who like big prizes that only fall occasionally will be especially enthusiastic about the slots from Golden Rock Studios.

The company currently has both slots and table games to its name. The portfolio consists of a total of 13 casino games that vary a lot from each other. In addition, an intensive partnership with Microgaming allows the team to fully focus on the development process. They outsource the distribution. This independent game developer is under the strict supervision of external gambling authorities such as the Malta Gaming Authority and the United Kingdom Gambling Commission. This way you can be sure of a fair and safe course of the games. Be sure to try out the games from Golden Rock Studios. It's worth it.

The theoretical return to player percentage (RTP) is 96.10% for this game, but with such a high volatility index players would likely need to perform well over a million spins to come within the standard deviation of that number - hence the name.

James Curwen made his first indelible mark in the industry as the Casino Manager and the Ritz Casino and Hotel in London's Mayfair district. After 8 years he became Casino Director at Ladbrokes and then worked in consultancy before coming on board at William Hill where he was Chief Product Officer among other top-level duties for nearly 6 years. Golden Rock Studios seems to be one of those distinctly qualified entities that have 'what it takes' to stake their claim to the apex of game development and operator satisfaction. To understand why we must look not only at the company's products but at the team and especially the leadership behind them.

We'll keep an eye on future releases and review them here, as well as keep a watch out for player feedback on the forums. You can also follow our news coverage of industry happenings and player-related information..

One of the advantages for companies that are making a fresh start is that they do not have to compensate for talent. The company's vision is primarily to provide quality products for entertainment and to be at the forefront of developing innovative games that meet the dynamic needs of players. They keep that player experience at the forefront of their minds throughout the entire development process.

The company's tack is quite the opposite. High-risk games with huge potential payouts seem to be the norm. Let's take a look at Volatile Slot, their first release. The name says it all, doesn't it.

What to look for in Volatile Slot: Expect plenty of low paying spins between good hits. Wilds and Exploding Wilds add excitement and potentially huge payouts. Additional wilds are added during the free spins bonus round.

Golden Rock Studios is a British game developer based in Gibraltar. They were founded in 2018 but despite the young nature of the company they have a lot of experience in house. The core team consists of members who have gained a lot of knowledge in both the online and land-based casino sector. They supplement that experience with a good dose of talent and creativity. This way they can take innovative steps together towards groundbreaking new casino games. They always keep their vision in mind. Namely, meeting the expectations of players in an intuitive way and creating real quality products for their entertainment.

This shows some of the hidden genius behind the games. While the volatility index is extremely high, there is a failsafe built in so that players do not feel ripped off after finally triggering the feature only to learn that volatility does not stop simply because a feature is triggered. With this 'secret mechanic' players always have a chance to win big, and when they don't they at least feel as if they were taken care of by the game.

A look at the talent tells us that we can never expect to see reskinned games or clones - they simply wouldn't need more than a brother in law's kid working from a basement overseas to accomplish that. We can expect to see all table games and slots designed to the highest standards of multi-platform availability. No potential customer will be left behind by technology. While the games are designed "mobile-first" they are also available over any other channel thanks to the frameworks they are built on and the HTML5 tech they are deployed with. In a nutshell... any game can be played on any device, regardless of the operating system.

Every once in awhile a true contender for prominence in the online gambling sphere makes itself known. Nearly all studios and labs are passionate about their crafts and the science behind their works, and it's an extremely competitive marketplace. There are perhaps dozens of elements that must all come together in synergy to catapult a name into the minds of operators and players and to gain traction on a long-lasting trajectory to the top.

The core team then consists of 9 professionals, each of whom adds value in the development process. Together they are able to make games completely in-house. The partnership with the larger Microgaming allows them to use the Quickfire platform so they don't have to worry about the distribution of their games. This allows them to fully focus on developing innovative and original games for the online casino industry.

We'll go out on a limb a bit here and predict that players will never see a single cookie-cutter title come out of the studios. Each game will have unique features and take users for a roller coaster ride from start to finish.

The portfolio of Golden Rock Studios is very varied and of high quality. Slots that seem to stand out are Gold 'N' Rocks, Wild Predators, and Gods of Power.

We can also expect to see unique game features and bonus mechanics found nowhere else. Gone are the days of throwing a dart to determine bonus elements - today, user engagement, perception and satisfaction are key to any game or developer's success. The competition is fierce and only the strong will survive with more than a smattering of games lost in the thousands of titles available via aggregators and multi-software platforms.
