But it's all focussed around the newly rebuilt Diamond Casino & Resort. And you know what the lifeblood of a Casino is? That's right, chips. No, not the kind you have with fish, the small round plastic kind you bet with.

You'll need chips if you want to gamble on the poker, blackjack and roulette tables. Not to mention with the variety of slot machines and the horse racing. However, assuming you don't win big, you'll have to return to the cashier to get more chips.

This is where some players might need a little help. So here's a quick guide that explains not just how many chips you can get, how much they equal and most importantly what the cooldown is before you can get more chips to use in the Casino.

Why is there a cooldown on the chips you can buy? Maybe because Rockstar didn't want you pulling a Clark Griswold and wasting $300 in a matter of minutes at the Blackjack table.

either way, read on, we've got all the important info you need to know on buying chips and the cooldown that Rockstar has put in place.

This question has two sides, because it all depends on whether you're a VIP Penthouse owner.

If you're some ordinary guy, you can only purchase 20,000 chips from the cashier at a time; and for the sake of clarity 1 chip = 1 dollar in the game.

However, if you own a VIP Penthouse owner then you can get 50,000 chips per in-game day

The cooldown to buy more chips in the casino is precisely one in-game day.
