It's difficult to imagine....but the developers of this gaming app don't seem to understand how to attract and keep people who will play enough to eventually purchase credits for the game. I'm assuming this game is developed by the same people who run the real Winstar Casino. Even the most novice of developers need to understand that you have to get potential players hooked so they will buy credits. You get players hooked by giving them big and numerous wins at first, then slowly decrease their wins. I downloaded this app and within 5 minutes had depleted my bankroll. Will I buy credits? No! The games are like those in real casinos....which is nice....but this is an online casino.....so don't say the odds are the same as those in real casinos....because in REAL CASINOS you can win REAL MONEY! It's a shame they don't seem to understand the basic psychology of attracting and keeping players. Would I go to their real casino....not if they treat players as they do on here.

In this modern day of demands for everything now, it's essential that an online casino can give its customers a fast and reliable service. WinStar's customer support does exactly that. Having tried the live chat out, our reviewers found the operators to be very helpful and efficient.

One aspect of an online casino that can separate it from the crowd is the bonuses and promotional offers that are listed. Some will spread their interest over a wide selection of games. Others will focus their attention on a smaller number of titles to offer more.

Online casino operates in accordance with the laws of the Chickasaw Nation. The license number and regulator of the online site are unknown, but it is operated by WinStar World Casino and Resort.

If there was one factor that was clear to our review experts, it was that WinStar online casino loves slots. The decision to profile them from so many big-name developers is a bold but effective move. Dead Or Alive from NetEnt is a prime example of the high-quality titles on offer. Raging Rhino by Scientific Games subsidiary WMS Gaming is another show of strength regarding the titles Winstar can deliver to you.

A first impression shows that this site is clearly one that has an awareness of what an online player wants on the visual front without sacrificing the navigational side of things.

The only other feature is the Mystery symbol. This essentially falls as a stacked symbol, usually across two reels and up to three rows deep, and randomly lands to reveal the same symbol. For this reason, we have had to mark this game quite low in the features criteria as it is a little too simple for our liking.

Changing the slot title that is used for the bonus is a cool way of getting you to try new ones, whilst giving certain video slots exposure that might not necessarily have caught your eye. Our review team thought it was a neat touch by the operator.

This brand should not be confused with the land-based WinStar World Casino and Resort that is based in Thackerville, Oklahoma. That casino targets the US audience whereas this one has more of a global appeal.

As a previous person stated in the reviews, conceptually you would hook your players with wins & then decrease the wins to the variable win rate. While I do not see the issues with the developer, nor the app. I see the issues with a specific game host (Konami). Though I have test to play some of the other game hosts aside from the slot e-game, so far they are the only ones with this lack of concept. Also, the background audio shouldn't be such a short loop. Why not double the audio loop? Considering, they have the means to, & they could easily just take the recorded audio from one busy night at the actual casino, & run 2 mins of that on a loop. It would give a more realistic vibe. Lastly, I think they should strongly consider converting this into a VR optional game! With that you could place your phone in the VR & have a real like experience into the casino. I think this would attract way more business!
