Last Saturday, I went to Ann's apartment to study for a big test. It was my first time there, so she wrote the directions down for me. She said to get off at the bus stop across from the library. After that, I needed to walk down Mountain Road to the corner and take a left. Next, I had to go straight for one block to the next street and turn left again. Before I reached her apartment building, I should pass the post office, a bank, and a pizza shop. Her place would be on the right next to a gas station. I did all that, but I never saw any of those places. I only saw a big playground, and I ended up at a bike shop. Something was off, so I took out my phone. When I checked the map, I saw my mistake.

Derek: Excuse me, sir. Could you help us? We’re looking for Wild Water Park, but we got turned around.

Man: Oh, that’s not too far from here.

Derek: Great! Could you show us? We have a map on our phone.

Man: Sure. Let’s see, you need to drive along Westeros Road and go past Crystal Lake Campground.

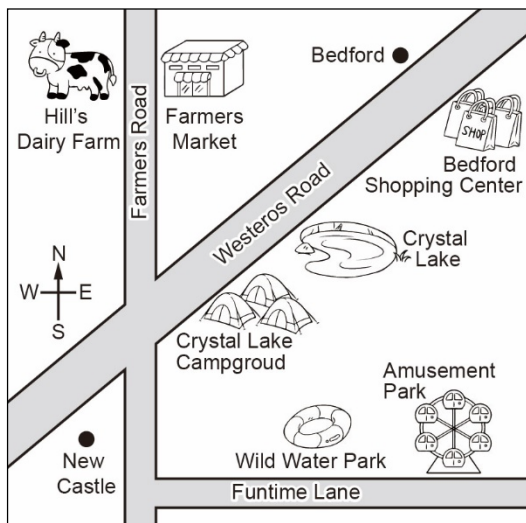

Derek: Oh, we just came from there.

Man: When you come to Farmers Road, go south. Soon, you’ll see Funtime Lane on your left, so turn onto that and keep going. You won’t miss the park because it’s huge.

Derek: Cool! There’s just one more thing. Can you show us the way to the Farmers Market? Our kids are a bit hungry.

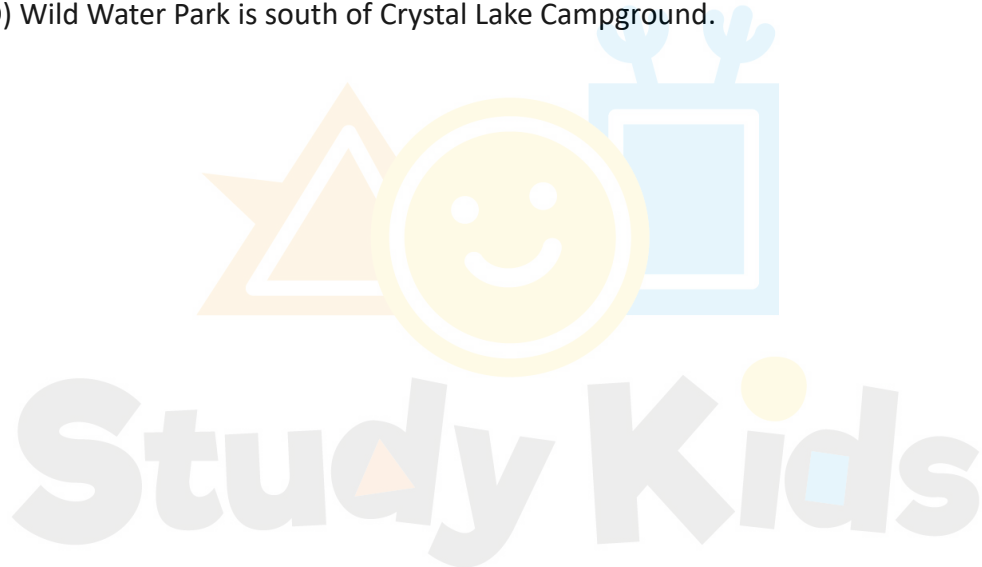

Man: That’s easy. Instead of going south on Farmers Road, just go in the opposite direction. It’s across from Hill’s Dairy Farm.

Derek: Excellent! Thanks for all your help.
