(一)

Tim: What are you looking at?

Adam: I am looking at a picture on the Internet. A five-year-old child, Joshua, died at the beach with blood on his clothes.

Tim: Oh, no! How could that happen?

Adam: The boy came from Syria. His country was in a war, so his parents planned to take him and his brother to leave for a free country.

Tim: Was it easy for them?

Adam: Not really. They brought some important things with them and took a ship to leave Syria. However, it sank, and many people died.

Tim: It was terrible.

Adam: Joshua and his brother died in the accident. People found them at the beach in the next morning.

Tim: So sad. The little boy couldn't grow up because of the terrible war.

Adam: You're right. We need to do something to help those poor people from Syria.

Tim: I agree with you. We can donate money and clothes to them.

Adam: It's a great idea. Maybe we can ask our classmates to join us.
